

Milano University Press

The Centre of Excellence in Economics and Data Science (CEEDS), with the support of the Data Science Research Center (DSRC), University of Milan, Italy, are glad to announce a call for paper for a book published by Milano University Press (with ISBN) entitled:

COVER – COVID-19 Empirical Research

This book is firstly aimed at collecting the contributions presented at the "COVER - COVID-19 Empirical Research" conference sponsored by CEEDS and DSRC, which was held online on October 30, 2020. Secondly, in order to provide the public with a timely and reliable injection of scientific insights on the Covid-19 pandemic, it is also aimed at hosting the contributions by other researchers who are working on the same topics of the conference. Topics covered in the conference were related to multidisciplinary empirical and theoretical research on the health emergency concerning the COVID-19 pandemic. The volume will be divided into three parts:

- Part I: economic and social determinants that favor the spread of the COVID-19 pandemic;
- Part II: effects of the COVID-19 pandemic on society;
- Part III: mathematical and statistical models for forecasting the COVID-19 pandemic.

The editors of this special issue will guarantee a fast and fair peer-to-peer review procedure.
